SURPLUS AND GIFTED FOOD DONATED OVER TIME TO FOOD HUBS

(Excludes MSD purchased food)

REGIONS SUPPORTED BY DONATIONS FROM NZ FOOD NETWORK

We are currently partnered with 63 Food Hubs right across New Zealand, helping us get more food to people who need it most. NZFN also supports an additional 110 Food Hubs with product purchased on behalf of Ministry of Social Development. The below map shows the current reach of our 63 registered Food Hubs.

HOW NZFN BENEFITS OUR FOOD DONORS

“Having a consolidated approach to our donations enables us to be more efficient, and the NZFN are specialists in getting chilled product around the country to where it is needed. The NZFN can help to facilitate the process of getting our donations to individual charities and Foodbanks, by providing the necessary storage and distribution solutions.” - Brett Henshaw, Managing Director at Fonterra Brands

“NZFN provides Champion with a simple procedure for identifying, allocating and delivering surplus stock. A list is submitted to NZFN, who respond on the same day with stock requirements. Picking, collection and deliveries are then organised for the next day. Since Champion store much of their product with external logistics providers, a rapid turnaround saves on storage costs and maximises the shelf life of donated products” - Ray Te Whiu, Supply Chain Manager at Champion Flour.

HOW NZFN BENEFITS OUR FOOD HUBS

“We registered with NZFN as our foodbank resources were continually sporadic. Belonging to this Network and knowing that we have food coming in on a regular basis has worked so well for our planning and implementation. We have been able to reach and support more whānau in remote areas as far as Potaka (top of the East Cape) to Nuhaka (our boundary with Hawke’s Bay) since working with NZFN. We are so thankful to be a part of this initiative.” - Linda Coulston, SuperGrans Tairāwhiti.

“The NZFN gives us, and the many groups that we support, the ability to receive food from outside our area and in large volumes. This is helping us, especially in the COVID-19 environment, when the need is growing by the day but we are constrained by the food that we are able to physically rescue in our geographic locality.” - Matt Dagger, Kaibosh Food rescue (Wellington).

“Receiving goods from NZFN has transformed the way we make up food parcels. We now have more variety and healthier options. For instance, we have often received fresh fruit and vegetables from NZFN, something we could never afford to buy. Our community is very supportive, but being a small community there is only so much people can keep giving. The food supply from NZFN has certainly helped alleviate financial stress.” - Maggie Stewart, Turangi Foodbank.
